RICHARDSON OUT; NEW AUDITOR IS NAMED NOWAY

Special Financial Committee
Succeeds Railroading
Through Dismissal.

ACTION PROTESTED AS ENTIRELY OUT OF ORDER

Suggestion of the Mayor is Adopted at Council Meeting by His Band of Most Faithful Followers.

The special recommendations of the special finance committee in railroading through the dismissal of C. L. Richardson, city auditor, on the suggestion of the mayor, and the appointment of A. N. Noway to fill his place in spite of protests from the minority that the action was entirely out of order, was one of the sensational acts in the Edmonton drama and farce enacted in the council chamber at the meeting last night.

After setting out a long list of reasons why this action taken by the majority of the council was entirely out of order, the committee concluded in the following manner:

"That the auditor be dismissed."

"That Mr. A. N. Noway, formerly chief inspecting officer of the Hudson's Bay Company, be appointed in his place."

"That one of the first duties of the new auditor should be to make a survey of the accounting system, methods, etc., in the various departments with a view to recommending to the council the necessity and desirability of obtaining an independent audit of the books of the city, and the extent to which such an audit should be carried."

"That a double-barrelled proposal be made to the council. It recommends the dismissal of the city auditor and the appointment of a new one. The proposal was out of order in putting through both changes in the one motion. His objections were not sustained."

Alderman Driscoll, in expressing his views, stated that his worship had been elected by the people as the mayor, but he had constituted himself a dictator. "I know for a fact," he went on to say, "that city auditors are absolutely no independence unless they bow down to your wishes. He characterized the actions of the mayor as becoming only some little village where the mayor is the earl, the police the king, and the council the lords. "This is getting to be a little village," he stated, "and it is being run by a little village."

When the report was brought, the minority pressed for at least a week to the council to audit a claim to the insurance made by an outside auditor who had only time for a very few days to examine the books, and that before the auditor had opportunity to point out the very errors he had discovered.

Alderman East moved and Alderman May seconded the motion that the resolution be laid on the table for the week. Alderman May then moved and Alderman East seconded that the question be now put.

The Mayor refused to recognize the latter motion, and insisted, after further discussion, in putting the question to a vote. Alderman May refused to proceed, and the Mayor proceeded to proceed. "We are a parliament in ourselves," replied the Mayor, "and it is our duty to force through to defend the motion to lay over this important question."

Alderman East then asked the Mayor if he dared to put the question without deciding the point of order.

Notwithstanding these protests Alderman May moved and Alderman East seconded the motion that the resolution be laid on the table for the week. Alderman May then moved and Alderman East seconded that the question be now put.

Doings of the City Council

Dismissed City Auditor C. L. Richardson and appointed his successor.

Abolished the gas department on motion of Ald. Calder.

Tried to dismiss Commissioner Chalmers; failing this, limited his duties.

Decided to apply to the legislature for charter amendments.

Adopted the report of special power board cutting light rates.

Received Alderman East's notice of motion calling for a plebiscite re elective commissions, initiative, referendum and recall.

Cancelled proposed agreement with the Interurban Railway Company.

continued, said Alderman East, "no head of a department can remain in the employ of the city and retain his self-respect under the rule of this ruthless gang system with your worship at the head of it. It is too bad that to get any information at all it is now almost necessary to break into the room where the frame up takes place."

The mayor at this point stated that Alderman East was out of order, but the majority insisted that if he was it was the mayor's move.

Alderman Driscoll stated that serious charges had been laid against one of the oldest and best city officials. His record, he claimed, had been used by calling in a statement and taking his word for it. "It is not fair to hang a man and try him after," said Alderman Driscoll, "and it is not fair to hang a man and try him after."

Alderman May could see no very good reason why his motion to lay on the table should not have been accepted, so that this man might have a chance. He was quite willing to vote with the majority if they could prove to him that these accusations were correct, but they had yet failed to prove them. He concluded by stating that it was nothing else but "steamroller methods."

"There have been discoveries made, but when this council sits down to the bottom they will get figures that will stagger this city," said Alderman Driscoll, in giving his views as to why the auditor should be fired. He supported the action taken by the majority for the dismissal of the auditor, Richardson, and stated that if he had received the insulting reply given to the mayor when he asked for a copy of the books, he would have taken the same course. In a lengthy argument he reiterated many of his statements contained in the report of the committee and contended in the recommendations it contained.

Alderman Smith enlightened the members of the council by telling them that it was the duty of an auditor to audit the books of the city, and that the auditor for not having printed copies issued of his report was in the wrong. "There is only one thing to do, in his opinion, and that was to get somebody at the head of the auditor and let him straighten out the affairs of the city."

Alderman Driscoll spoke in favor of the dismissal of the present auditor. He told the council that he had gone into the matter, and from the very beginning he had seen no reason why any collection could be taken to it. "I believe that Mr. Richardson has been but a little bit of a failure," he stated, "and the interests of the ratepayers only considered. He characterized the work of an auditor not merely as a man who checks figures, but an official who can point out where the system is at fault."

The report submitted by this committee continues:

"Your committee, having gone into the matter of the Mayor's recommendation to secure a new auditor, being to report:

"To find that the statement of the auditor of departments showing the total cost of the city for the year 1913, as reported to the books as kept by the accounts of the city of Edmonton as $1,785,685.10 at June 30, 1913, is incorrect, and that the correct amount should be $1,864,818.18."

"That the accounts have not been audited by a competent person, and that the expenditures authorized by council.

"That there is no reason to believe that he would have permitted or condoned the unauthorized expenditures made in 1912 if properly aware of the facts, and under a proper system of auditing, such unauthorized expenditures should have been discovered in time to prevent them."

"No Effective Audit."

"That there does not appear to be any certainty that the city's accounts have been audited by a competent person, and that the expenditures authorized by council.

"That there is no reason to believe that he would have permitted or condoned the unauthorized expenditures made in 1912 if properly aware of the facts, and under a proper system of auditing, such unauthorized expenditures should have been discovered in time to prevent them."

COUNCIL NOTES.

Alderman East gave notice of motion to secure the right of appeal from the decision of the council on the question of the proposed extension of the city limits.

The amalgamation reorganization committee reported to council that the statement showed a deficit of only $438.00. This was a temporary deficit, and the council had an appropriation of $1,000 for deficit, which was not a permanent deficit. A vote of commendation was passed to Alderman Tipton for the successful work of the committee.

The O.P.P. applied to the council for a license to use the north side of the bridge in preference to the south side, which they had at present used. The commissioners recommended to council that this request might be granted if the company will agree to bear half of the cost of paving and provide an inner guard rail so as not to interfere with traffic. They will also be required to unload only between the hours of seven p.m. and seven a.m. The solicitor has been instructed to take the proposition up with the railway and secure their consent to the proposition if agreeable.

The solicitor was instructed at the council meeting last night to take the case of the city of Edmonton to the provincial legislature for the purpose of having the city limits extended to the city limits to take care of all school children. This step was taken in order to have the city limits extended to the city limits to take care of all school children. This step was taken in order to have the city limits extended to the city limits to take care of all school children.

Objection has been raised to the plan of a drinking trough at the corner of the intersection of the city limits to the city limits to take care of all school children. This step was taken in order to have the city limits extended to the city limits to take care of all school children.

"We find that little or no attempt has been made to correct the loose methods and system in vogue in the stores and work department, and that by reason of the chaotic state of the accounts the result of the annual statement of the city's books for the year 1913, as reported to the books as kept by the accounts of the city of Edmonton as $1,785,685.10 at June 30, 1913, is incorrect, and that the correct amount should be $1,864,818.18."

"We find that a price book or system of pricing, showing cost to the departments of the city, and the price at which such merchandise should be charged out to the various departments, has never been compiled, and the auditor has failed to call attention to this fact."

"It is illegal, I contend," said Alderman East, "to fire the auditor or to fire another one and then clear up the accounts of the year."

"If this system of firing is to be continued, it is illegal, I contend," said Alderman East, "to fire the auditor or to fire another one and then clear up the accounts of the year."

K.W.M. The present rate is 8 cents with an allowance of 10 per cent for prompt payment. The report also recommends the collection of arrears of rates to 10 per cent, making a 20 per cent reduction.

The City Solicitor Down informed the council last night that the agreement with the Interurban Railway was all right, as the company had refused to have anything to do with the council. The council was informed that a similar plan to the law effective in the city of Columbia or Ontario might be adopted, whereby when a judgment had been given against a party the judge could fix the amount to be paid and the court, if not paid, would constitute contempt of court, and lead to imprisonment.

The employees of the architect's and paint departments were granted one month's pay in lieu of notice to quit. This will start from the date these departments received notification that they were dismissed. Alderman May and East expressed their regret that they could not give a full month's notice to the employees.

The Magna-Holsteine company offered to provide materials for the construction of a 30-foot paved street from the exhibition grounds to the Highlands if the city would give them a license. The cost of this paving would be $100,000. The city was asked to consider the offer.

The matter of getting a sewer laid to the north side of the city was discussed. The city was asked to consider the offer.

Faithful Six Run Steam Roller

The council meeting last night was one of the most unusual ever held in the city since incorporation. The proceedings of the meeting were expected to be of an exciting nature and was evidenced by the large crowd of ratepayers in attendance, numbering over 200.

All the members of the council with the exception of Alderman Lundy were present.

The firing of the city auditor, C. L. Richardson, and the appointment of A. N. Noway, formerly of the H. B. Co., was fought to a finish by Alderman East, May and Driscoll, who were all faithful to the old and trusted city employee, the report of the special finance committee recommending his dismissal should be laid over for a week to give the matter opportunity to develop itself against statements of which he has not had any knowledge. The steam roller was applied and the adoption of the report forced through with the mayor's usual majority.

They were out on the warpath after the scale of Commissioner Chalmers and the provision in the charter requiring a two-thirds vote was the only thing that saved him. In the air burns report all manner of errors have been found on Commissioner Chalmers, and even what- ever by Alderman May, but the irregularity was waived by the mayor. He could never find out anything that Commissioner Chalmers had done and therefore he could not get after him. When their scheme was blocked by the minority, they disposed the wings of Commissioner Chalmers and put him in charge of health and relief work.

The gas department was dealt its death blow on motion of Alderman Chalmers, whose notice of motion was out of order. It was protested by Alderman May, but the irregularity was waived by the mayor when asked for a ruling. Alderman May asked his worship if he had the privilege to provide preliminary procedure. The mayor replied that he had, as long as the majority did not object.

Alderman May caused the session of the evening by accusing Alderman Walsh of having lobbied him for his support on the Rabbit Hills case. Alderman Walsh came back with the stinging reply that the man who made that statement was a liar.

RING RULE IN THE COUNCIL CHAMBER.

Masks are off, the bars are down and citizens of Edmonton are called upon to witness in the actions of the city council the most deliberate attempt to "gang" the city that has ever been perpetrated in the history of any municipality in Western Canada. Throwing all regard for the proprieties to the winds, the ringsters in the council flagrantly violate the letter and the spirit of the charter which they have heretofore advertised as the cornerstone of civic security, depending upon their sheer weight of numbers to substitute steam roller rule for constitutional government. There is no longer any pretense of publicity, openness or deliberation in handling of civic affairs. Dark-lantern methods, held in the corner committee meetings and secret caucuses from which the minority of the council is absolutely excluded have taken the place of the properly-constituted meetings of the council provided for under any form of government known to any other city in the dominion. From these secret meetings resolutions are brought into the council and jammed through without consideration, without regard for the provisions of the charter, without even the pretense of regard for the rules of order. In these secret meetings no minutes are kept, and no records made. The press and public are absolutely excluded. There are no stenographers present. The public is given no opportunity to know what are the considerations which impel members of the ring to the course which they so ruthlessly pursue. In the case of the car barns committee the other members of the committee even went so far as to exclude Alderman Driscoll, the only alderman not in the ring who has been included upon any committee of importance this year, from the secret caucus at which was framed the report subsequently brought into "fire" Commissioner Chalmers.

In the minds of citizens who have followed the development of events closely there can be no shadow of doubt as to the motive of all these devious moves. Departmental heads who give their O. K. to such schemes as the Pelican Gas, the Rabbit Hill and the Forty-second street car line are accepted at once, and without question. Departmental heads or civic employees in any capacity who are suspected of harboring any opposition to these schemes are slated for elimination. The method by which they may be reached is a matter of absolute indifference. Almost any pretense will do and the mayor and members of his council majority do not scruple to jam through resolutions intended to rob of their reputation men whose capacity and reputation does not admit of a question and whose loyalty to the city's welfare is established beyond the shadow of a doubt. In the melee the interests of the citizens are being forgotten and ignored by the ring. The finances of the city have been steered into an impossible jam from which the city will be lucky if it emerges without an immensely costly law suit. With streets torn up in every direction, construction work has been brought almost to a standstill and citizens are being compelled to wade through the mud everywhere. Whether deliberately or not, the street railway is being so handicapped by mal-administration that to make it pay would be impossible. Every new surplus shown at the power house marks the occasion for a new act of a defaulting clerk is magnified into some sort of derogation of the department, police force is a positive joke, and when a couple of members, dismissed for having followed the orders of the commissioners by giving their estimate of the police organization to Inspector Buck, apply to the commissioners and the council for an investigation of their case—an investigation which could not fail to make the ringsters look ridiculous—the cheap subterfuge is invoked that the communications were lost and did not reach the council.

From this moment forward it behoves every public-spirited citizen of Edmonton to observe carefully day by day the developments at the city buildings. This thing cannot go on and the city escape enormous injury. The public should know where the blame lies, so that when the time comes there may be no mistake as to who must shoulder the responsibility. The solution is the establishment of an elected commission form of government with the recall, and the elimination of the gangsters.

AN UNFAIRING OPTIMIST

An unfairing optimist is that dean of journeyman railroaders, Sir William Whyte. Every year, as surely as the cycle rolls round to the harvest month, he comes forward with the cheering and perfectly placid assurance that the crop, on the whole, is very good and that everything is all right anyway. Coming from such a source the assurance is annually accepted as a sort of shoo-fly to any fears which may have existed in the minds of the timorous ones who saw destruction in every rainstorm and drought in every spell of sunshine. Meanwhile, Whyte goes right along, unperturbed by the political turmoils of the succeeding years or the annual yells about car shortage, just operating a railroad with whatever facilities he has at hand, hauling out the wheat and saying nothing to anybody except once or twice a year to say that everything is all right—the same yesterday, today and forever. In Canada's composite picture of the railroaders who are more than half politicians and grabberheimers and who are less than half William Whyte pegging away year in and year out is a sort of mental relief calculated to convince one that everything is all right. The difference between Whyte and most of Canada's more recent railroad magnates is that Whyte railroads.

ROYALIST SUCCESSION TO THE GOVERNORSHIP

According to the London Daily Graphic Prince Arthur of Connaught is slated to succeed his father, the Duke of Connaught, as governor-general of Canada.

The Graphic's prognostication may be altogether unfounded, and it would be fortunate if such were the case. In a democratic country like Canada anything savoring of an hereditary rule of the government would be a gigantic blunder, and to establish the precedent of appointing Prince Arthur to his father's place would be to doubly blunder by introducing the feature of a royalist succession to the governorship.

Prince Arthur is an estimable young man, no doubt, and would make a very good Canadian, but the situation makes it difficult to accept him as governor-general.

TODAY IN DOMINION HISTORY.

Thomas Chandler Halliburton, the great Nova Scotian jurist and literary satirist, died at Laleham, near London, England, 48 years ago today. He was born in Windsor, N. S., in 1795, and received his education at King's college, in his native town, the oldest of Canadian institutions of learning. At 24 he was called to the bar, and in 1820, he moved to the house of assembly. In 1828 he was elevated to the bench as chief justice of the common pleas. Before this he had written his first book, "An Historical and Statistical Account of Nova Scotia." In two volumes. It was in 1832 that he left the foundation for his fame as a satirist by contributing to a local paper a series of letters depicting the peculiarities and characteristics of the genuine Yankee. These sketches, abounding in humor and written with great scholarly skill, were widely copied, and the fame of "Sam Slick" spread over America and Europe. In 1837 a collection of his letters was published under the title of "The Clockmaker, or Sayings and Doings of Samuel Slick of Slickville." He died in England in 1842, and was buried in the cemetery of the Great West. "Tula and Misallure of the English in America," and "Trails of American Humor." He remained permanently in England, where he was elected to Parliament as a conservative. His last speech was on the subject of Canadian defenses. Admiral Sir Charles Carder Druce, eminent naval officer, was born at Rathfriland, N. B., 67 years ago today.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

Centenary of Napoleon's

First Imperial Coronation

A century ago today, at Dresden, Napoleon's star blazed out in his brilliant career for the last time. In his successful campaign against the allies, he had besieged the Saxon capital, the "Man of Destiny" gained his last important victory.

Two days before the Austrians had begun a bombardment of Dresden, and St. Cyr's outposts were driven into the city. On the 26th the Austrians made with fire and on the verge of despair, were overthrown by the arrival of Napoleon's army. The city was saved, the defense of the city, and was received by the King of Saxony with the honors of a hero. Napoleon, who had been to the city in his triumph, was met by the Emperor. The allies attacked in a furious charge, but were met with a murderous fire.

On the following day, August 27, 1810, Napoleon launched his masterpiece. He had turned against Napoleon over Dresden, the Grand Army poured its columns out of the city, and attacked the Austrians. The first day was a complete success. The allies were defeated with great slaughter and in disorder. Napoleon's army, which had been driven back the Prince of Wuttemberg, but he pursued too far, and three days later he was forced to retreat. The decision was not to piece, and his staff made prisoners.

One of the tragedies of the battle of Dresden was the fatal wounding of Jean Victor Moreau, one of the great generals of the French republic, who had turned against Napoleon and joined the staff of the Czar Alexander. The Russian Emperor's suite at Bachelitz came under a heavy fire during the progress of the battle. General Moreau was struck by a cannon ball. His leg was immediately amputated, but the operation did not save him, and he died a few days later.

"That rasal Bonaparte is always lucky," he exclaimed. He was the most hated man here was dragged from under his horse. But luck had abandoned him. On the 26th of August, a century ago today, the army of the Czar camped for the last time on a victorious battle.

It was Moreau, dead and buried, who defeated Napoleon in the subsequent battles. He had outlined the plan for destroying his former master, and this scheme was carried out after his death. Moreau had urged that a general battle was not to be risked, but that corps of the French were to be engaged, one by one, until the parts of the army were disabled. In turn Vandamme, Oudinot, Macdonald and Ney were defeated, and Napoleon was driven from Germany.

Today is the feast day of St. Joseph. Catholic schools for the education of the children of the poor. The thousands of children who are throughout the world are, in large measure, due to the efforts of St. Joseph, who was born in Aragon about the middle of the sixteenth century. He is related to him that when only five he had organized an army of children to find the devil and kill him. He became an educationist, and worked in Rome, where he soon had over a thousand children under his care. He carried his work to the United States, where he founded the Order of Clerks Regular of Pious Schools. Like most other men of that time, he was a saint. He died in Italy, he spent his last days in prison.

naturalized subject of Uncle Sam, last sold in his portfolio love for his old country. Not long ago he said:

"I have crossed the Atlantic with persons who have thought it clever to scold at the Statue of Liberty when entering the harbor of New York. The old Adam rises in me when I hear these people say that I would put double customs duty for the pleasure of taking a good running kick, as in my old football days, the clearest cry of the man who does not dare to confess an exaltation of soul at the sight of Liberty turned the children of men to this and wonderful world. I should not like to be found in a ditch by the side of such a man."

This is a rather strong utterance for a man who was one of the founders of the Passive Resistance league in England.

THE GAY WORLD.

ROE-SLACK.

A charming wedding was that of Miss Olivia M. Slack, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Slack, 538 Fourteenth street, and Mr. Edmund A. Roe, which occurred today at 11 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. McNeven of McDougall church in the drawing room of the bride's home before a back-stand and a group of pale pink sweet peas and deep cream asters. Throughout the house were quantities of deeper pink sweet peas and bridal roses.

The pretty, dark-haired little bride gave away by her father and attended to her traveling costume.

The last vest of the bride's dress was entirely of all-over embroidery made with narrow stripes of pink satin.

The coat was of Russian, and made with a vest of satin with small gold buttons. The collar and cuffs were of dull bronze lace over pink. A wide hat of Panama trimmed with pink roses and brown velvet completed the costume.

The bride wore a necklace of pearls and amethysts.

While the bride party took their places, Mr. Francis Pirie played "Othello's Mad" and Miss Edith Powell sang the same. Afterwards Mr. Pirie sang a number of delightful songs.

There were about 30 guests at the luncheon which followed. The bride's table was an exquisite concoction of salted ribbon, broad bands of satin, ribbon, and flowers to the chandeliers and fastened to the handles of four small crystal baskets filled with tiny white rose buds.

In the center of the table was a cluster of herald roses in a tall cut glass vase. The guests were seated at smaller tables grouped about; each table with a centre cluster of pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Slack, the bride's mother, wore a gown of light blue striped silk, trimmed with darker blue velvet and ivory ermine lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Roe left on the 3 o'clock train for Vancouver where they will take the boat for their future home in Los Angeles.

The young couple were very popular. The presents sent to them made an exquisite collection of Crown Derby, cut glass, silver and brass pieces.

Mrs. Josephine Duff was in Calgary for a few days the guest of her sister, Mrs. Grogan, Fifth avenue west.

Dr. and Mrs. Whitlow and little son spent the week-end at the Château Banff.

Mrs. H. Smith and Miss Smith are in Banff at the Château there.

Mrs. C. U. Holmes and little son Mac left on Monday night for the east. Mrs. Holmes will spend a month or so in Toronto.

An Instantaneous Wrinkle Remover

(From Eastern Styles)
The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered azoos from her nearest druggist, and add to it a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day. The result is charming—marvellous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.

When is Women's Dress Indecent And Why Is It

Monocle Man in Canadian Courier Offers a Few Suggestions to the Gigantic Intellectuals that are Wrestling With Problem.

I see that a lot of civic authorities are bending their gigantic intellects to the task of regulating the dress of the ladies. It is not a duty which I would think of adding to the already enormous responsibilities of the civic solons who make our by-laws and of the civic Bruises who display great discretion in leaving most of them unenforced.

These severe mental strains appear to me to have quite enough to do now. At any rate, they are always surrounded with a lot of unadvised work, which condition is usually regarded as a sign that the workman, so surrounded, is over-worked. Then regulating the toilet of the ladies is certainly a task which calls for some qualities of head and hand that are not possessed universally by the blundering and uninitiated male.

These civic sartorial authorities are trying, they tell us, to prevent women's dress from displaying too many "charms." And they are about as well engaged as an elephant would be in trying to "dash-not" a hat that it shall be of a certain consistency, and all that sort of thing; but "every woman knows" that she can promptly live up to every one of these conditions, and still be quite as charming as she was before.

The male view of the matter is to endeavor to play a game which they most emphatically do not understand, and which they can only win if their opponents decide to let them do so.

It is funny, when you come to think of it, what different extremes in dress have been described as "indecent." The modest skirt is "indecent." Yet they are the precise opposite of each other.

If you wanted to cover the shabbiness of some woman you had arrested, you could not do better than put a Mother Hubbard right over it. The fact of the matter is that what we call "indecent" in dress consists to a very large extent of reminding the onlooker that a woman is a woman.

Now, if it is "indecent" to be a woman, I see that a Montreal paper has been running a hot-weather series by taking a remark I made in this department to the attitude of the Delly toward the subject, and interviewing the local clergy on the subject. It isolated my remark from its context—converted it from a satire into a serious statement—and then got the clergy to "view with alarm." Well, the weather is still hot; and I will give it another airing by a set of interviews by making another remark about the policy of the Delly.

It is this—I do not believe that, when the Delly and women are committed to indecency or perpetration of an immorality. A religious officer in the United States says that, rather than let women dress as they do, it would be much better to permit them to follow the custom of some savage tribes and array themselves in beads of porcupine. I am glad that was a religious officer and not a politician.

THREE RECRUITS FROM "BIG TOPS"

Empire Favorites This Week Were Once in Circus—Man Was Clown and Girls "Worked" Sideshow

Vaudville draws on every profession known to the civilized world for its thousands of players. The acrobat may have been a tradesman before his nimble feet and supple muscles drew the attention of an interpreting variety manager; the song and dance artist may have been a professional man before he took up a stick of grease paint. The eccentric comedian may first have mimicked before crowds under the "big top" as circus tents are commonly known.

In the last-named class is Frank Milton, the humorous portrayal of a rural fiddler in "Twenty Minutes Lapsing at Algonquin Junction" on the Orpheum vaudeville bill at the Empire theatre, the first night of this week. Mr. Milton has done everything in the show business, but play Shakespeare and he will have nothing whatever to do with the hard reasons that would not look well in print.

Born of theatrical parents, heredity played a large part in the selection of a calling for Milton. He started out as one of the funny clowns, who are targets for the rocks of small boys frequently. He "clowned" for several years with various troupes, including every "big top" on the continent, excepting, of course, Barnum and Bailey.

The two De Long Sisters, who were chorists of Milton, who were "work" playing "hooky," and who plays in Mr. Milton's present act, played the stage before. When Milton was in a circus the sisters "clowned" in a side show, but "clowning" seemed to fit their personalities. They have played the act several seasons, but hope to have a new vehicle upon their return from England this winter.

It is unfortunately true that some of our feminine styles are the creations of people who desire to suggest "the female form." You notice I do not write "the female form divine." I have no doubt that they do it deliberately. But the very fact that it becomes the style defects their purpose. Frequent resort to suggestiveness. We all get accustomed to it. And then they must create a new style. Happily, most of the fashions are in the hands of true artists who are aiming only at beauty. They endeavor to make a picture usually of some type of human being, and the awful atrocities we frequently see on the streets as a result of their efforts are due chiefly to the draping of these styles on "types" to which they are not adapted.

A Parisian artist, who makes a dress for a vicious, diminutive, sourest of girl, and "brings out all her" suggestive performance, and is imported to Canada, and a few of the rural variety get it, and "look at the female form divine." I have no doubt that they do it deliberately. But the very fact that it becomes the style defects their purpose. Frequent resort to suggestiveness. We all get accustomed to it. DISMISSAL PLAN FAILS FOR LACK OF TWO-THIRDS

"The next thing I knew this damned report was sprung on me," said Alderman Brisson, "and I don't like damned goods. They are liable to be poisoned. I was notified that the committee would meet this evening at 7 o'clock to finish up the report. I was here, but the other members of the committee did not show up until nearly half past eight when Alderman Walsh, walked in and saved me the report."

Alderman Brisson also stated that at the investigation Committee. He had said that if blame was to be placed it should be on the system, although he handled the finances. He asked for the production of certain vouchers made out during the month when something like $35,000 was charged up against the new bars, but these had not been produced.

Alderman Brisson put the blame on the system and termed it "unworkable." If they were after one individual he thought that Commissioner Harrison was the man to blame.

Blaming it on Chalmers.

In moving for the adoption of the report, which recommended that Commissioner Chalmers be dismissed, Alderman Walsh rehearsed many of the arguments used by the committee in the lengthy investigation report. He blamed Mr. Chalmers for the over-expenditure on the new bars and for many other things. He figured that in all something like $20,000 had been over-expended during the past year, and as Mr. Chalmers was the commissioner of utilities he blamed him for all this.

Editor Suggests Draft.

Alderman Calkins seconded the report, and in doing so he supported his colleague in his views. He said that no one was in a position to say just what had happened to the $12,000 which had never been requisitioned, and if better results could be obtained he did not want to sit on the council any longer.

Frame-up, Says East.

Alderman East, in discussing the report, stated that it was another case of a frame-up. He had taken place during the afternoon in the mayor's office. He happened to be there, but the report was discussed in such a manner that he could not get an inkling of what it purported. It was finally ratified through committee at 8:30 and rushed on to the council.

Alderman East told his colleagues that Commissioner Chalmers was the villain here and the only member of the commission board who had any real brains. Alderman McLean, he stated, had the reputation of never doing anything. Commissioner Harrison told the committee when the investigation was out, that if any one commissioner was to blame, he should be the one who looked after the finances, but Mr. Harrison put the blame on the system.

Notwithstanding this fact, East pointed out, the committee was now putting all the blame on Chalmers who had charge only of construction and whose shoulders the committee had laid only $1,000 worth of errors. He contrasted with this the case of the high level bridge, where millions were made which would probably cost close to $50,000, and yet no "frame-up" was out to fix the engineer in charge of the work.

Rabbit Hill and White Mud Creek.

If Commissioner Chalmers had turned the gas franchise and the Rabbit Hill water scheme, he would have been favored by the Aldermen, and would not have had to go, said Alderman East. The emphy of these Aldermen, he declared, had been brought down upon his head because he did not favor an extension of the street railway to White Mud Creek. He mentioned other instances where Mr. Chalmers had dared to stand up for what he believed to be right. He had refused to take the responsibility of spending between two and three millions of the people's money on the Rabbit Hill water scheme, and the public will never be able to repay Commissioner Chalmers for the good work he has done for the city.

Calls Mayor Egotist.

Alderman East told the mayor that Commissioner Chalmers had done more for the city than his worship would accomplish if he remained in office for ten years, for the simple reason that he had not the business capacity, and was possessed with "unbounded egotism."

The mayor replied that he was well aware of what Alderman East thought of him. Alderman East replied that his views were backed up by a large number of citizens.

One On Alderman Livingstone.

Alderman East concluded with the statement that the report of the committee was an array of scandal matters to fix the dream of Commissioner Chalmers. He called attention to a blunder that had been taken under the picture of a drinking trough at the corner of Fourteenth street and Jasper avenue, which had been placed at the corner of Sixteenth street. This is the man who is passing as the protector of the city's health.

Tipton Resists "the Gang."

In defense of himself against insinuation in the effect that he was benefiting by having the water plant at Rabbit Hill, Alderman Tipton said that he was for the plan for the adoption of Chalmers' report which recommended against the plan. Alderman Tipton resists "the gang" as not being fair. He had read the report on the car barns over and had had nothing in doubt as to the committee was taking the right course. While he had nothing against Mr. Chalmers, yet he represented the people.

Plot to Kidnap Lloyd George is Suffragette Idea

Male Accomplice Betrays Plan to Have Three Desperadoes Carry Him Off.

London, Aug. 27.—A suffragette plot to kidnap Lloyd George, which just failed of success, has been revealed, states the London Daily Sketch. For $200, three desperadoes were to cause a collision with and damage Lloyd George's automobile while he was near Walton-on-the-Hill. Then they were to seize him and carry him in a fast automobile to a secret place arranged by the suffragettes. A male suffragist revealed the plot.

"DIAMOND JIM" BRADY IN ROLE OF CUPID

Vienna, Aug. 27.—Brigands attacked the Bulwark-Berlin Mail train last night in a forest near Hietz in Galicia, in an attempt to steal a consignment of gold. The train crew, aided by passengers, beat off the attack and the brigands decamped. This is said to have been the first incident of the kind in Austria.

NEW TENNIS RECORD.

Newport N.I., Aug. 27.—The lawn tennis championship record for this was practically reached on the Casino ground yesterday. When Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco successfully defended his title in straight sets and maintained the Pacific coast supremacy by defeating Norris Williams, 2nd, of Philadelphia, in the final of the all-concrete tournament in a well-fought four sets. Scores were 4-3, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.

ple of the city and this was not a criminal court where a man has a right to a trial, but it was a civil court where Alderman was the representative of the people whose money they are spending, said Alderman Tipton. When we find officials that are directed in their duty it is our duty to vote with them and put others in their place, he continued, and I am going to vote for the adoption of the report.

Mud Blinging, Says Livingstone.

"We have had a great deal of mud-blinging by Alderman East," said Alderman Livingstone, "and, if continued, it will drive good men from this council. He objected to being called one of the 'gang,' and insisted that only those who had not the best interests at heart resorted to the use of 'mud-blinging.' He contended that the committee merely presented their report, but he hoped it would get the endorsement of the majority."

At this point Alderman East took occasion to remind Alderman Livingstone that he himself had already called one of his colleagues a "liar" and a "fover."

Western Canada Still Becoming Greater Magnet

This Week Promises to Break All Records for Arrival of New Settlers.

Duluth, Aug. 27.—This week promises to break all records for the passage this way of settlers for western Canada. Four hundred men and women from eastern Canada passed through here last night making a total of near 3000 thus far this week and railroad officials say there is a prospect that the total for the seven days will exceed 5,000.

All are being taken from here to Winnipeg and from there will be distributed through the western country.

SEA ELEPHANTS KEPT ALL ALIVE

Scientists Subsisted on Hearts and Livers, But Grew Weak on Food.

Christ Church, New Zealand, Aug. 27.—The steamer sent by the New Zealand government to relieve the members of Dr. Mawson's Antarctic expedition on McQuarrie Island in the south Pacific sea, has returned and reports that the scientists have been short of provisions since March.

They lived chiefly on the hearts and tongues of sea elephants, on fish and on game which they were able to kill. Sufficiency of this diet had been seized but the men had grown obviously weak upon it and the relief supplies came none too soon.

The party early got into wireless communication with Dr. Mawson's winter quarters, Adelphi, and were in daily communication with him.

Frank M. Gray, president of the Western Canada league, returned to Victoria yesterday, where he will remain for some time.

Stomach Always Baulked, Had Constant Indigestion

Small of Cooking Made Him Sick—
Bilious Two Days a Week

Cured by Hamilton's Pills

"Mr. Hamilton's experience is not unusual. Nowadays, poor stomachs are the rule. The rule that the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they give the trouble at once, so right to business, work while you sleep and have no feeling better if not cured next morning.

"I got so tired to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Hamilton, of Newbridge, N. Y., "that I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform the work. Digestion was more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended, flat, and the food, for often at night it would do great things. At times I would vomit, and at other times I would feel as if I had a great weight on my chest. A friend, who had been cured of a similar case, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvellous. My stomach was relieved, the case, strengthened the stomach, elicited the liver to normal action, the blood was renewed, and I felt like a new man. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

BUGLAR IN CELL WANTS LUXURIES

Prisoner in Jail Says He Needs
Service of Tailor and Barber

Philadelphia, August 27.—Locked up in city jail is Cornelius C. Street, who is not only a fashion plate in the matter of dress, but is probably the most "high-toned" prisoner ever taken into custody in this city upon such a serious charge as burglary.

The prisoner has admitted to Aetna Cash and Creditors' "Tale and Wood" that he robbed the house of a millionaire and the country house of a millionaire, and that does not seem to worry him so much as his personal comfort and appearance while in the cell.

Barber Shaves Him Daily

The barber insists upon having a barber sent to him daily and upon having all his meals prepared at a restaurant near the city hall and sent to him. He is stylishly attired, and had several suits of clothing made up for him. He has requested that a tailor be sent to him because he thinks he needs a desire to shine as a "Bread Brimmer."

Street, who is probably 24 years old, and according to his story, was introduced a play on a big farm near Philadelphia, and, according to his story, was introduced to the story of his life, and according to his story, was introduced to the story of his life, and according to his story, was introduced to the story of his life.

Street's request that he be allowed to have his meals served from a restaurant near the city hall and sent to him, has been granted. Street has also requested that a barber be sent to him because he thinks he needs a desire to shine as a "Bread Brimmer."

Street was caught by Detective Harbidge while trying to redeem a valuable watch which had been taken from the house of a millionaire.

HARVEST KEEPS SHORT

Toronto, Aug. 27.—That the harvest will again be short handed during harvest season is the general opinion of the railway experts handling the special excursions. This is formed upon the figures of the previous excursions.

These show that the large excursions already held, less than 18,000 were carried to the west, and the first are always patronized more largely than the succeeding ones, there is every indication the prairie farmers will again have to appeal to the farmers of western United States to assist them.

Prof. Hoben Observes Great Menace in Gowns Now Worn by Women

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Gentlemen fashions in women's gowns were described as "devil's designs" by Professor Allan Hoben, of the University of Chicago, during a lecture on the Sunday School Institute in session at the university. The educator declared women could not afford to wear gowns refusing to follow the more suggestive modes.

Prof. Hoben declared women had made a mistake in diverting attention from their faces by wearing gowns of too pronounced effect. He said many women found it impossible to regard the street as a stage for the display of their charms. He said the splendor and "silliness" of dresses were works of his satanic majesty.

"I do not wish to make this point absolutely important or call attention to it in a melodramatic way, but I am disposed to say that, according to the present mode, the woman who is well-dressed would be the measurably dressed," said Prof. Hoben.

"Women have attracted attention from their faces to their forms. A more spiritual effort can be gained from looking at the countenance."

"The tendency is to draw attention from the countenance to the parts of the form which excite the eye. This is distinctly unfortunate. Consistency to be to boys and girls of being the great pressure of city life defective character."
